Statement on Academic Freedom and Intellectual Diversity

from Carole A. Anderson, Interim Dean of the Graduate School

Students who are concerned that their grade in a course has been affected by a consideration not intellectually relevant to the subject matter should refer to the faculty rule associated with alteration of marks located at http://trustees.osu.edu/rules8/ru8-22-231.html. An undergraduate student may choose to consult an academic advisor or the Student Advocacy Center for advice on this process. A graduate student may choose to consult the graduate studies committee chair for advice on this process.

Students who are concerned about unfair academic treatment on the basis of political opinions or other personally-held tenets or points of view should refer to the faculty rule associated with complaints against regular, regular clinical, and auxiliary faculty members located at http://trustees.osu.edu/rules5/ru5-04.html. An undergraduate student may choose to consult an academic advisor, the Student Advocacy Center, or the department chair or school director for advice on this process. A graduate student may choose to consult the graduate studies committee chair or department chair or school director for advice on this process.
